

Will the Bush Administration bomb Iran?

Half the warships in the U.S. Navy currently sit within striking distance of Iran.

Rhetoric is heating up in Washington.

Journalist and author Reese Erlich takes a look at the real story behind the looming conflict.

Journalist and author Reese Erlich shows how the Bush Administration plans to subvert the Iranian government and lie about it to the American people. He traces the troubled history between the two countries that has led to the current showdown over nuclear technology, and he reports from Iran and northern Iraq to uncover details of how the U.S. has funded ethnic minorities to carry out guerrilla raids and terrorist bombings inside Iran.

In addition to covering the political story, Erlich offers firsthand insights on Iran's domestic politics and diverse population. He also interviews the son of the former Shah of Iran, Reza Pahlavi, and members of Southern California's large Iranian expatriate community, and reports on their efforts to shape Iran's future.

In his previous book, the best-selling Target Iraq: What the News Media Didn't Tell You, (co-authored by Norman Solomon, and with contributions from Howard Zinn and Sean Penn) Erlich presciently exposed the lack of weapons of mass destruction in Iraq or Al Qaeda ties to Saddam Hussein. He showed how the U.S. media failed to report the full spectrum of facts to the public.

Erlich produced the 2001 radio documentary, "The Struggle for Iran," narrated by Walter Cronkite and broadcast on National Public Radio (NPR) stations. Erlich reports regularly for NPR and Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Radio. He also writes for Mother Jones, the San Francisco Chronicle, Dallas Morning News, and St. Petersburg Times. He is the winner of a 2006 Peabody Award for his work as a segment producer on Crossing East: Our History, Our Stories, Our America, aired on Public Radio International.

"The Iran Agenda is vital reading for anyone concerned about U.S. foreign policy."

"The Iran Agenda takes readers on a whirlwind journey through the conflicts between Washington and Tehran that threaten to explode into disastrous conflagrations. No one trying to understand what's really going on between the United States and Iran could find a better guide than Reese Erlich."
